Agreement Reached to Not Let Debate Drag and Reach Decision Within Short Time

ARTICLE TEN TO BE LAST

Reed Still Insists Pact a "Serpent of Treason" To The United States.

Whatever Outcome of Ballot Treaty Passes From Senate Calendar.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, Feb. 26.—The peace treaty came back to the floor of the senate today to be given the right of way until disposed of.

Despite the demand of the irreconcilables for ample discussion, debate will not be allowed to drag along interminably. On that point majority and minority leaders are agreed. It is believed that not more than three weeks will be consumed in disposing of amendments to the reservations adopted at the last session of Congress and a final vote reached.

After that vote whatever the outcome the treaty will be seen no more on the calendar according to senate leaders who will await the verdict on the question at the polls in November. Another broadside of denunciation was loosed by irreconcilable opponents of the treaty today.

Senator France, republican, of Maryland, and Reed, democrat, of Missouri, led off for irreconcilables, the former characterizing the treaty as an instrument of "hate and destruction" and the latter calling it a "serpent of treason". The debate began after the senate had voted to pass over article ten until action had been taken on all other proposed reservations.

North Pole Hotel

The recent death of Robert E. Peary has temporarily pinned public attention to the North Pole, the discovery of which brought to Rear Admiral Peary the recognition of the world.

The prediction that within a few years time flying to the North Pole will be so popular among tourists that a great hotel for their accommodation will be necessary, was lately made by Prof. G. H. Bryan F. R. S. of London. He said, "A large fortune awaits those who start in that business now, for a short number of years will see thousands of trippers by airplane and airship to these virgin regions." Here's a chance for some daring Hotel man.

There is great fascination to the adventuresome in the thought of a visit to the frozen north, with its wonders of icebergs and vast expanse of ocean, glittering in the "land of the Midnight Sun." The natural curiosity of people to see new sights; the centuries of mystery concerning the top of the earth and the polar regions, and the long distance flying, which is confidently predicted in the future will lead to the drift northward.

Even now at the National Physical Laboratory are being developed parachutes for such trips into the north. The principal difference between a parachute for such work and ordinary flying is claimed to be the addition of an electric heating apparatus.

Aeronauts cannot understand the reluctance many people feel towards the trip through the air their belief being that aerial navigation will become the safest as well as the quickest form of navigation.

It is a curious fact that often people with the most money and time, who might be thought willing to take a trip in the air as a matter of novel experience, are the most fearful.

But with the wonderful development of aircraft, as it is now progressing it is a safe prophecy that in the coming years people will forget all about their fear of flying and when that day comes, why shouldn't the Polar regions, with all their interest of the unknown, be popular?

A Real Factor

The important place our Public Library occupies in the community is best realized after a period of closing, such as was necessary while the recent ban was on.

Following the removal of the ban there was an unprecedented demand for books. For two weeks the Library had been closed and the librarians found difficulty in taking care of the large number who desired to secure books as quickly as possible or to have access to the reference shelves.

The temporary closing may have been a good thing in bringing to the public the knowledge of what a real factor in community life our Public Library is, educationally and for the pleasure and interest of the reading public.

We are so apt to take things for granted—to use the important and necessary without a thought—and it is only when the wanted thing is cut off that we realize what it means to us.

Our Public Library has been built up, upon years of careful and trained effort and is a vital part of Washington's educational interests.

There is a splendid selection of reference books for students and these are also found invaluable by local club women. As far as funds permit every class—biography, political economy, history, travel, religion, philosophy, science and fiction is to be found on the library shelves. People who are not accustomed to use the library would be surprised to find the wide field covered and the care shown in the selection of the different classes.

It is not always possible to supply the large demand for new fiction, but as far as possible this is heeded.

Washington's Public Library is an institution in which our city may justly take pride and deserves all the "boosting" that has been following the removal of the ban.

POETRY FOR TODAY

THE REST IS SILENCE."

I do not think the dead can speak to us;
Else would the old man's wife come back to him
Whose very soul she was, and coming thus
Be comfort to his desolation dim;
Else would the mother soothe the little child
Who calls for her at night with sobbing wind.

Or, knowing we shall follow them in turn,
Perhaps they fail to comprehend our hearts;
Not that their own to us are changed and stern.
But that with death the temporal departs;
No more they live in earthly days and years,
And do not guess how long the time appears.

The music of the manner of their lives
May waken singing echoes now and then.
The immortality that here survives
A little while, in memories of men;
But they themselves make answer not at all—
Are they but slaves, to hasten when we call?

Wizards we have that peep and mutter yet,
And women who will work a charm for pay,
Who catch the foolish in a flimsy net;
Or if indeed they summon, as they say,
Spirits that wander in the world outside—
They are not those who here have lived and died.

If I could think the great and stately dead,
The dear and gracious dead, degraded so,
To speak through phantoms of a trickster's head
Or spell out words inane in a row—
If I could think they suffer such disgrace,
I would arise and curse God to his face.

—Selected.

SOCIAL : PERSONAL MENTION : CLUBS

The beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Garringer was the scene of a delightful family dinner in honor of the birthdays of the two daughters Miss Helen, at home, and Mrs. Elmer Armbrust, and honoring the youngest son Homer and his bride (nee Carsie Craig) on their return from their wedding trip.

Washington's birthday suggestions were effectively used in the decorations and in the center of the table was the large birthday cake, with eighteen burning candles for the younger daughter, Miss Helen.

Victrola music was a feature of the day's entertainment.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Garringer, Helen and Ernest; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Armbrust and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garringer, children Paul and Bettie Mae, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garringer, daughter Vivian, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Garringer, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Garringer, children, Keith and Jean.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGee delightfully entertained thirty-five couples Tuesday evening.

The large living room with extending bay window gave ample accommodation and music, dancing and refreshments added to the pleasure of the evening.

Salaried men of "White Collar" callings are steering clear of matrimony, but the wage earners in the various crafts are rushing pell mell into it, records of the marriage license bureau show. Marriages of the former are reported as being 25 per cent below normal, while those of wage earners are breaking all records. The clerk in charge of the bureau, which is an "economic barometer," attributes the discouragement of the salaried men on matrimony to the high cost of living and the fact that their earnings have not kept pace proportionately at least, to those of the men drawing wages.

"The tenacity with which certain members of the Senate cling to their own ideas of the proper settlement of the Peace Treaty reminds the Woman of a remark made the other day by small Louise, just four, but already a character of considerable determination.

"She was wiping her muddy boots with a clean white handkerchief one day recently, when the Woman, who caught her in the act, reminded her that Mother would not like it.

"No," said Louise cheerfully. "I don't think Mother would, but you see this is the most p'ct'lar thing that I do!" And having presented the Argument Unanswerable, she kept on."—New York Sun.

Mrs. Frank Gilmer of South Main street entertained the February meeting of the Wesley Chapel Mite Society Wednesday afternoon, with a large number of members and visitors responding.

The President, Mrs. John Noble, was in charge of the opening exercises and the regular business of the meeting.

The names of Mesdames Freyman, McKee, Scoggins, Arnott, Garrison, and Leola Mallow were presented for members.

Several interesting papers were read by Mesdames McKee, Willis, McLean, Householder and H. V. Rodgers.

During a delightful social hour Mrs. Gilmer was assisted by Mesdames Davis, Ellison, Springer, Smith, Creamer and Sturgeon.

A delightful audience, largely representative of the musical contingent of Washington, assembled at the First Baptist Church Wednesday night to hear Miss Lorie King, who was presented by Mrs. H. L. Stitt in piano recital, assisted by Miss Ada Woodward, vocalist; Miss Helen Teeters, accompanist.

The recital afforded a very beautiful concert and aroused the appreciative plaudits of the audience to an unusual degree.

Mrs. Stitt introduced her wonderfully talented piano student and made brief explanatory remarks before special numbers, which added much to their interest.

The young pianist, was most attractive in rose silk, with corsage of pink rosebuds and sweet peas and played with perfect composure. Her entire program, varied to show the different styles of technique and interpretation was superbly rendered. The first part of the program was composed of studies, played to show how really pretty they could be when well played. "Solemn Prelude"—Coleridge-Taylor, made tremendously heavy demands and the two last numbers of the program, "Nachstucke, No. 14—Schumann, and "Valse Op. 34"—Moszkowski were brilliant and beautiful to a rare degree.

Miss King has been an exceptional student and, having the double advantage of proficient technique and personality, plays with great brilliancy, while her readings are imbued with deep musical sense and feeling.

She enters the Cincinnati Conservatory this week, going to the city or the Symphony concerts on Fridays and remaining over Saturday for lessons. Those who heard her are predicting a bright future for the young pianist.

Mrs. Woodward contributed four lovely soprano solos to the program, her appearance calling forth an enthusiastic reception. She was in excellent voice, sustaining her high notes admirably and sang with the naturalness and charm which always delights her hearers.

The fitting melody of the "Boat Song" and the extreme beauty of Frank LaForge's "Sanctuary" will linger long in memory.

Miss Helen Teeters proved a most artistic accompanist.

Miss Mary Pyley cordially extended the hospitality of her home Wednesday afternoon for the February meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church, Associated with her in entertaining were Mesdames Albert McCoy, D. H. Barchet, John Paul, J. W. Elliott, W. D. Chandler, D. H. C. Bowen, D. W. Schneider, Margaret Bennett, H. E. Edwards, Mary Millikan, A. M. Bash, R. C. Shisler, G. C. Kidner, Sturgeon, Miss Blanche Tullis.

There was a surprisingly good attendance for the wintry day and the meeting was full of interest, with the month's subjects, "American Indian and Chosen," Mrs. Austin F. Hopkins, President, after the usual opening services, placed the leadership of the meeting in the hands of Mrs. W. M. Mitchener.

Mrs. Frank M. Fullerton presented the Home subject in a splendid paper on "Advance of the American Indian," its meaning interest accentuated by the introduction, "stirring passages from 'The Soul of the Indian,' the book of the Sioux Indian, Charles Eastman and the unusual close, an Indian translation of the Twenty-third psalm.

The writer spoke of one Indian girl who is a prominent designer and artist and of the claim made that all Indians are natural artists as proved by the designs of their rugs, pottery and bead work, which express great originality. The same originality is found in their poetry and songs.

Some of our prominent men in business, politics and the professions are Indians.

Mrs. Fullerton gave insight into the Government and Mission Schools of the new church survey and its helpful possibilities and of the number of tribes which have a translation of the Bible in their own language.

Mrs. G. W. Blackley contributed one of the finest papers of the year on "Missions and the Chosen People." Her descriptions of the political upheaval which is now disrupting Chosen were wonderful, bringing to her listeners vivid insight into its horrors.

This movement for independence is spreading to all parts of the country and in it all classes are participating. Mob violence and brutal treatment of the people are prominent features. Enemies of the missionaries are trying to involve the Mission schools and have succeeded in closing them. It is the belief of the missionaries that suppression of this movement is impossible without outside international help and that, under present conditions, seems equally impossible.

An interesting letter from Miss Samuels, who recently returned from a visit in this country to her missionary work in Chosen, was read by Mrs. Hopkins, whose guest Miss Samuels was just prior to her return. Miss Virginia Ellies played a very pretty piano solo.

Dainty refreshments were served and a social hour much enjoyed.

Mrs. Fred Hall, of Columbus was a guest and the society cordially welcomed the New Y. W. C. A. secretary, Miss Townsend, who made a brief talk.

Mrs. Frank Jones charmingly entertained with a Bridge of four tables Wednesday evening.

Yellow and white Spring flowers were most attractive in decoration and a tempting collation brought to a close a delightful evening.

The guests freely expressed their regret over Mrs. Jane's soon leaving Washington for Gallipolis her former home.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church greatly enjoyed an oyster supper in the church basement dining room Tuesday evening, as the outcome of a contest between "the Odds" and "the Evens." The winning Odds were handsomely entertained by the losing Evens and the supper hour was one of much merriment.

The committee which capably managed the affair was composed of Mesdames Gayle Bowen and Laura Brownell, Mrs. Coral Melers and Joseph Wilson. A business meeting followed the supper.

Five tables of "500" were pleasantly entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rankin, Wednesday evening, at her home on South Syracuse street. After a spirited game a delectable two course luncheon was served.

Lillian Teeters delightfully entertained the girls of the "Jolly Ten" at her home on North Main street, Thursday afternoon.

After games and a spirited contest in which Katherine Miller won the prize, dainty refreshments were served. Mrs. C. A. Teeters and daughter Miss Ruth assisted in the hospitalities.

The guests included: Janet Vohle, Eud McClure, Judith Ann Mitchell, Margaret Gibson, Regina Brant, Georgia Harper, Dorothy Chandler, Katherine Miller, Jean Michael Helen Hutson.

It is basing strange that a man—and sometimes a mighty poor specimen of his kind at that—can make a girl forget all the obligations of her womanhood. It is the way of the world and girls; and people are hardly surprised at happenings that occur so frequently.

A search for a girl supposed to have disappeared, perhaps have taken her own life, because of despair over the death of a soldier lover, pursued for nearly two weeks by distracted parents and the police, culminates in finding her in company of another man who, through exercising his persuasive powers, has put her in jeopardy of the law. The secret romance has betrayed thousands of girls, beguiled by a false heart and flattering tongue.

The outcome is a blighted reputation, shame and disgrace felt often most keenly by those who have loved the wayward child best, and whose hearts are wounded by lack of confidence and trust.

The girl who carries on a clandestine acquaintance with a man of whom she knows nothing save what he chooses to tell her is in grave danger. The fact that he does not wish to meet her family, and that she prefers he should not ought to be a warning. Balancing a secret sense of risk is the charm of the forbidden and what she calls its romance, which finally leads to disaster. After all, the conventions of society are for its safety and protection, and may not be ignored with prudence.

In any such secret affair there is reason to the family tie and the love that holds its units together. The girl who runs away from home has little thought of the anxiety and distress she causes her parents, no feeling of gratitude for the care and affection lavished upon her, no sense of duty toward those who have conferred countless benefits. And yet how often hamed, repudiated or unable to ensure life with the man she chose, she is glad to creep back to the deserted home and sheltering arms she abandoned!—Detroit Free Press.

The Commercial Reserve Fund

The business that possesses a surplus in marketable bonds has an insurance fund against disaster. It has always on hand liquid assets whose value is not in the least affected by the state of the business.

Furthermore, a business needs credit most when credit is hard to get. It is when money is tight and credit strained that there comes the best opportunities to buy large quantities of raw material for cash. It is at the end of a period of over expansion, when commercial paper is almost impossible to float, that bills payable press the hardest.

At such times the bond reserve is worth more than its cost. Any bank will loan from 80 to 90% of their market value on sound, readily marketable bonds. So a business can "cash in" on opportunity.

We have mentioned only a few of the obvious advantages of owning securities which yield five to six per cent, yet are almost as liquid as money on deposit. It may interest you to know the experience of corporations who have found the formation of a liquid bond reserve extremely profitable. Our information is at your disposal.

Great consideration is given to the question of a close and quick market in the bonds and short term notes which we offer.

We have those securities best adapted to a commercial reserve fund for the merchant or manufacturer.

MAKES SUCCESS OF WORK IN Y. M. C. A.

The many friends of Miss. Winona Wilson may well have a feeling of pride for the success she has made in the past year in the service of the Y. M. C. A. of Chicago Ill. She is now seeking a position in Ohio to be near her home which is in Washington C. H. Ohio.

A recommendation was given her by the executive in charge and a copy of it sent to her home paper in Washington C. H. Ohio is as follows:

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

This is to certify that Miss. Winona L. Wilson, who is at present secretary to Executive Secretary of the Wabash Ave. Department Y. M. C. A. has been in the service of this branch of the Young Men's Christian Association since May 1919. It is my understanding that she is desirous of securing a position in Ohio in order to be near her home which is in Washington C. H. Ohio.

I wish to advise that any one needing the services of a competent stenographer and typist, also office manager, I am in position to know that Miss. Wilson will be able to fill either or all three very successfully. For the past six months she has been at the head of the office force here in Chicago, giving entire satisfaction by her executive ability as well as her accuracy and speed in taking and transcribing notes.

Very truly yours

TRIANGLES MAKE DOZEN VICTORIES

By defeating the New Burlington Five, also known as the Kingman team, on the Y. M. C. A. floor Wednesday evening, the Triangles played their thirteenth game and won their twelfth consecutive victory. The Triangles led all the way and finished 64 to 26.

During the first half the visitors had little chance to score and were able to loop in but four baskets while the Triangles grabbed twelve. Jenkins for the visitors was the one shining light of his team and made three or four long field goals in the second half that ran up their score to a fairly respectable size while the Triangles gave all their men a chance and still kept far in the front.

Accurate basket shooting of the Triangles featured the game. Smith with twelve, and Hays with eight, led the locals in goal shooting.

Referee Myers announced that on Saturday evening the Triangles will play at Grove City and on Tuesday evening at Lancaster where they will clash with the Petty Shoe Company, one of the strongest teams in independent circles. On next Thursday evening the Martins will be the attraction on the local floor.

No More Corn Suffering

"Gets-It" Never Leaves a Corn On Any Foot For Very Long.

The hurting "pep" goes right out of that corn the moment a few drops of "Gets-It" lands thereon. It is through, and "For keeps."

Corns and "Gets-It" Can't Live Together

You'll have no more pain but will notice the corn getting loose and wobbly. In a day or so, you lift it right off without any feeling. That's the end of the corn and of your troubles. Millions have proved "Gets-It" to be the one and only unfailing, common sense corn remover. Why not you?

"Gets-It" costs but a trifle at any drug store and carries a money-back guarantee. Mfg. by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Sold in Washington C. H., and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Brown's Drug Store, Blackmer & Tanquary and C. S. Haver.
